The time to buy is when prices are low! There is nothing too astute about that statement. Any thinking investor will agree. Right now cattle prices are at their lowest levels in over a decade. However, values on better registered cattle have held up amazingly well. Still there are many "blue chip" investments to be made in any sale. If you are thinking in terms of future profits, then think about investing in registered Shorthorns and Polled Shorthorns. They have more to offer the investor than any breed today. Any breed that has been in existence for nearly 300 years has SOMETHING GOING FOR IT.
